GOOD FOOD FOR THOSE DOING GOOD

Cobb Collaborative is a non-profit organization whose vision is, “Cobb County partners working together to create opportunities for all people to thrive.” When Collaborative Executive Director, Irene Barton, met Keylan Mitchell of MOOYAH Mableton the two of them connected and collaborated on an idea to highlight and celebrate local nonprofits doing good work in Cobb County. “Good Food for Those Doing Good” is a quarterly recognition for which Cobb Collaborative member nonprofits are nominated to win a “burger bar” for up to 25 people courtesy of MOOYAH.

“Good Food For Those Doing Good” officially kicked off in Q3 2023 and the first selected winner was the Tommy Nobis Center. Keylan Mitchell, owner of MOOYAH, said, “My wife Erika and I opened MOOYAH Mableton with the goal of partnering with and serving organizations that improve our community. We are honored to begin our new partnership, Good Food for those Doing Good, with Cobb Collaborative because it gives us the opportunity to thank our social services professionals who work tirelessly to enrich our community. It was a pleasure serving The Academy at Tommy Nobis Center and we look forward to the next Burger Bar.”

Tommy Nobis Center was honored with the MOOYAH burger bar on September 5, 2023. MOOYAH provided lunch for participants of TNC’s Program called The Academy. Monica E. Oliveira, Manager of Development at TNC, said, “Since the launch of The Academy program at Tommy Nobis Center, our students and staff have put in a tremendous amount of effort, working diligently to reach the next steps on their professional journey. MOOYAH not only provided a delicious lunch, but also a special time for our students and staff to connect further through fellowship and celebration of their accomplishments. Our students were really looking forward to the Burger Bar and it definitely did not disappoint!” Cobb Collaborative Executive Director,

Irene Barton, added, “We are always happy to make connections between people and between agencies. It was obvious from the students' faces that they were very excited about the lunch, and we appreciate Keylan for being inspired to do this.”

Nominations for Q4 2023 “Good Food For Those Doing Good” will open on September 20 with nominations due by 5:00PM EST on October 21, 2023. More information, including nomination guidelines, can be found online at bit.ly/CC-MOORYAH
